CRM Licensing Requirements

Access to CRM entities via a portal does not remove or substitute baseline CRM Licensing Requirements. Please refer to the Dynamics CRM Online Licensing and Pricing Guide for details (Page 4, 5 & 9 – Internal/External Users, Multiplexing, & Custom Entities).

<http://aka.ms/gtn5wt>

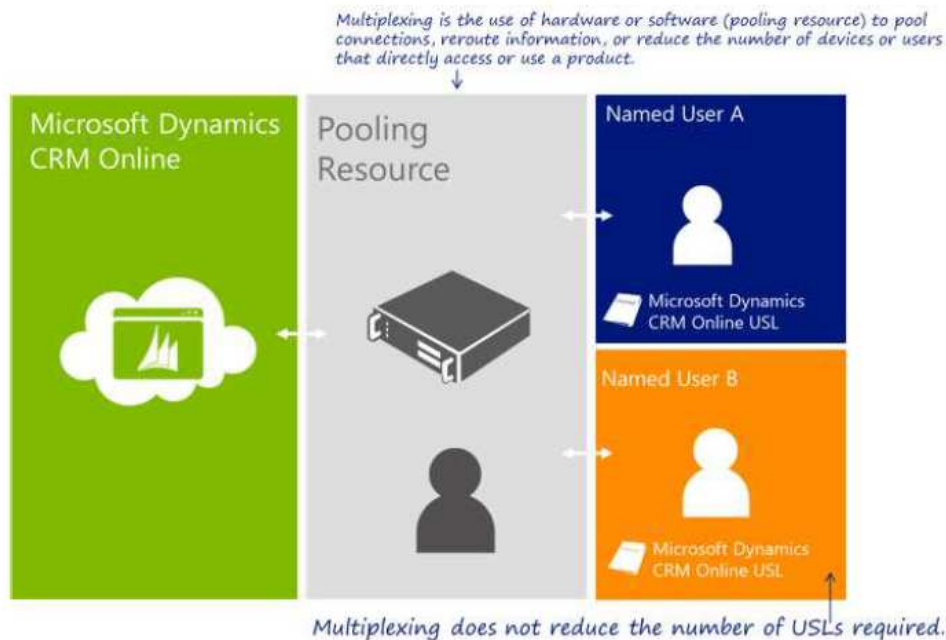

Internal Users: Regardless of mode of access, internal users accessing CRM entities or data are required to have the appropriate USL, CAL, or SAL depending on the type of use (read/write) and entities involved.

Internal User Examples:

- User is not a FTE of Microsoft customer, but has an agency or contract relationship. This user participates in the sales cycle on behalf of the Microsoft customer business. The agent is updating taking opportunities, calling prospects and writing an opportunity back into the system.
- User is not an FTE of Microsoft customer, but does contract work executing projects on behalf of the Microsoft customer.

Multiplexing also does not remove the need for a license for internal users.

Any future release of a Microsoft product based for portals scenarios will be considered as a different product with different terms and conditions.
